“Lady in the Window” Captures Hope, Healing, and the Mother-Daughter Bond in New Novel

New York, NY – SelectBooks, Inc. announces the hardcover release of Lady in the Window (May 9, 2017; $24.95; ISBN: 978-1-59079-407-4) by Maryann Ridini Spencer. Kate Grace, who seemingly has it all, faces the trials and tribulations we all face at one time or another in our lives — the death of a loved one, the breakup of a romantic relationship, and the desire to find one’s authentic place in the world.

After a series of concurrent events that turn her life upside down, Kate retreats to Hawaii, welcoming the land and its beauty into her healing process. But, the angelic and otherworldly occurrences that being to transpire during her respite are too poignant for Kate to ignore. Lady in the Window leads Kate towards her path of destiny: discovering true love, purpose, and the infinite bond between mother and daughter.

“I knew that I wanted to write about family and healing,” said Spencer. “It was during a visit to Kauai in 2014 that I decided to place my novel in Kauai because of the affinity I had for Hawaii and its people. Then after my dear mother passed...the story of Lady in the Window just unfolded for me.”

Spencer is an award-winning screenwriter and producer, noted for writing the teleplay for the Hallmark film The Lost Valentine starring Betty White and Jennifer Love Hewitt. Drawing from her own personal experiences and her home in Hawaii, Spencer weaves a universal work for women who have undergone similar events in their own lives.

Kate’s path experiencing loss, heartbreak, and betrayal, to the enchantment of self-discovery and the fulfillment of a loving relationship, offers inspiration, hope, and healing.
